

we train we place we care

Kay Ganley

Industry Expertise and Associations

Australian Council for Private Education and Training (ACPET)

National Chair of ACPET
 Queensland State Chair of ACPET
 Member of the ACPET National Board
 Chair of the Tuition Assurance Scheme (TAS) Committee
 Member of the Audit & Risk and International sub-committees

Training Industry Involvement

Board Member Australian Technical College, North Brisbane
 Board Member of the CEO Challenge
 Chair of VET Working Party, VET Export Office
 Member of the Queensland Studies Authority (QSA) VET in Schools Working Party
 Board Member Queensland Education & Training International (QETI) Export
 Member of the DETA Professional Development and Disability Working Parties
 Member of the Contributions Review Panel

Awards

Queensland Education and Training International (QETI) Outstanding Professional Contribution Award, 2009.
 Queensland Business Review (QBR) Women in Business Award, 2008
 Telstra Women's Business Awards - Finalist, 2008
 2007 CEO Challenge – Winner
 Queensland Business Review (QBR) Rising Star Award, 2007

Background

As the CEO of CHARLTON BROWN®, Kay Ganley is at the head of one of Australia's leading training providers and job placement agencies for the nanny, child care, aged care and disability care industries.

In 1995, Kay purchased Brisbane based Charlton Brown Australia Nanny College. Since that date the business has grown from offering eight-week nanny courses to nationally accredited certificates through to advanced diplomas in all care industries. Then in 2005 the company was re-branded as CHARLTON BROWN®, amalgamating the College and Nanny Placement Agency under the one name.

Business expansion also occurred throughout Australia with training and carer placement services being offered in New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, the Northern Territory and Western Australia.

CHARLTON BROWN® has expanded offshore establishing formal agreements in Malaysia, Indonesia, Vietnam and India. The basis of these agreements is to provide a range of Australian accredited child care, aged care and disability qualifications to the South East Asian market.

Expanding nationally and internationally presented potential risks and challenges to CHARLTON BROWN®, but under Kay's guidance, the business continues to grow and expand into new areas.

It is clear through her service to a number of industry committees and boards, that Kay is passionate about CHARLTON BROWN® and the ongoing development of care industries. Her involvement in the industry is more than merely in her role as CEO but as someone who has a genuine interest in the wellbeing and quality training of all care workers.

Kay continues to commit her time and energy to provide an environment where students can reach their potential, and is an advocate for providing quality choices in the education and training sector. Kay is equally passionate about provision of quality care, by experienced and qualified professionals, which is why CHARLTON BROWN® has secured its position as one of Australia's well known and respected agencies and private training institutions within the community services industry.